course towards our whole country since the first outbreak of the rebellion, has been grand in its justice and noble in its unselfishness. Russia suffers from the war-for she requires extent as France and England. She has in no way encouraged the rebellion-she does not dmit a rebel vessel in her harbors, either on the Baitic or the Euxine. As she says, she leels no hostility to the South, but above all she desires the integrity of the American Union and the continuance of our nationality.

She is the only great nation which excludes the rebei flag from all her harbors. The recent interview between Bayard Tayfor, our Charge at St. Petersburg, and Prince Gortschakoff, the Prime Minister of the Czar, developes in really a superb, grandeur, the profound affection which Russia manifests towards our torn and bleeding nation. In his earnest language, Russia knows neither North nor South, but is for our country, one and in-
